CASSANDRA L. PIERRE-LOUIS

Founder & CEO

A native of the Bronx, Cassandra holds a BS in Business Administration: Finance from Mercy College. Prior to starting ColourWay, Cassandra functioned both as Social Media Director and, later, Research Chair for BelTIFI Inc., a non-profit organization based in New York that serves young Haitian-American women across New York State in the areas of self-care, mentor-ship, and professional development. Her future plans also include spreading technology education and encouraging start-up development in Haiti to promote economic independence through financial literacy programs and curriculum

An avid traveler, Cassandra has always approached her travel planning with a bit of trepidation. She has always had concerns about traveling as a woman, but more specifically as a black woman. Her hopes are that this app provides not only a forum and platform for sharing photos, tips, and deals, but that it functions as a safe space for those who don't necessarily feel safe when traveling because of how they identify.
